

Pet Shipping Services

Before you decide to move your pet to another country, several factors should be considered.

First, will your pet be allowed into the destination country? If yes, a health and/or rabies certificate may be required from a veterinarian. Contact the Consulate or Embassy of your destination country to establish how long any certificate is considered valid and if your pet will also need an entry permit. (See our link Foreign Embassies in the U.S. locator).

Second, cost is a considerable factor. In some cases, you will be required to pay for your pet to be quarantined. Depending on your destination country, your pet could be quarantined from a few weeks to several months.

For additional expert guidance on how to correctly and safely move your furry family members we recommend contacting one of these service providers for additional help.
